This face-to-face session is part of an ongoing effort by the Institute of Child Nutrition (ICN) to establish and support a national network of trainers. The target audience for this course is anyone who wishes to become a more effective trainer.

The curriculum was designed to assist participants in acquiring the knowledge and skills needed to design and deliver effective trainings, as well as encourage further professional development. This interactive training allows participants to be actively involved in the learning process.

The keys areas are Administration, Communications and Marketing
